

Why Wood Jobs are Important to Me

My dad helps get forest products by loading logs from the logging sites to the logging trucks. He operates a Log Loader to load trucks. Log trucks have air brakes and have strong engines.

He wakes up at 1 am so he can get those logs on the trucks. The trucks haul to the mill. He often lives in our camper at the logging site. We miss him a lot but he is doing good work.

He believes in protecting nature, but he also believes we can borrow from it. That's what my dad says. One and a half acres of wood are cut down every second, but we replant it. Nature is everything to us. We need to keep it alive.

He also provides money for our family so we can survive. He provides everything we need like food and shelter, and he also gets us furniture and stuff.

My dad provides forest products to everyone and that's why I am super proud of my dad. That is why wood products are important to me.
